Language Studies

English Acquisition RJ

Program Code: LEACRJ

This program is designed to promote students' acquisition of the English language; support their oral, visual, and written language development; as well as the development of their cognitive and communicative capacity. It provides the opportunity for students to learn the English language (understanding and using English to communicate), to learn about the English language (understanding how English works), and to learn through the English language (using English as a vehicle to convey meaning, thinking, learning, and reflecting). Students will develop skills and understanding that will enable them to identify, interpret, and respond to a range of print and visual texts. Through reading, individually and with others, they will develop a recognition that reading is a vehicle for learning, communicating, and an activity that can bring enjoyment. Through writing and creating their own visual texts, they will develop an understanding that writing is a means of recording, remembering, and communicating.

This program is designed to develop students' understanding of mathematical concepts in contexts that are relevant and realistic to them so that they can apply their knowledge and understanding to real-world situations. They will develop an understanding of how the collection and organization of information helps to make sense of the world. They will develop an understanding of how measurement involves the comparison of objects and the ordering and sequencing of events. They will understand that shapes have characteristics that can be described and compared. Through identifying, describing, extending and creating patterns in various ways, they will understand that patterns and sequences occur in everyday situations. They will understand that numbers are used for many different purposes in the real world and be able to count and use number words and numerals to represent quantities.

Personal and Social Education

Personal and Social Education RJ

Program Code: PPSERJ

Personal and Social Education (PSE) aims to help students develop healthy self-concept, identity, and relationship with others. They will explore how they are similar and different to others and how they have grown and changed. They will develop skills and understanding that will enable them to identify and explore strategies that help them cope with change. They will be encouraged to reflect on their experiences in order to inform future learning and to understand themselves better. Through interacting, playing and engaging, sharing ideas, cooperating and communicating feelings with others in developmentally appropriate ways, they will build an understanding of how their behaviour affects others and identify when their actions have had an impact.

Creative Writers & Readers - Reception

Program Code: LWRNRJRS

In this program students will develop literacy skills. Students will analyze stories and hone their skills in producing writing works. Creative writers and readers require learners to manipulate the language in interesting ways to express uniquely personal meanings. Creative writing feeds into more creative reading, by getting inside the process of creating the texts, learners come to understand intuitively how such texts function, and this makes similar texts easier to read. The development of aesthetic reading skills provides the learner with a better understanding of textual construction, and this feeds into their writing.
